SUIT FOR $100,000.

As heretofore stated in the Gazette, Virginia H. Bowles, of Roanoke, has now begun suit in the Supreme Court in New York to recover $100,000 damages from Charles Stanley Johnson, a business man with large interests in New York, Chicago and Monongahela, Pa. Miss Bowles alleges that he falsely represented himself to her to be a single man, and, on the strength of these representations, made violent love to her, with the result, as she avers, that he induced her to drink with him and subsequently to live with him under the promise that he would make her his wife. She does not sue for breach of promise, but for damages for "the fraudulent representations and assault." Miss Bowles says she was born at Roanoke 18 1/2 years ago, and lived there until May 30, 1901, when she went to New York to reside with her aunt, Mrs. Margaret Cheeks. In the affidavit that she has prepared for her counsel, A. H. Hummel, she declares that she first met Johnson on December 16, 1903, at the Waldorf, when she was introduced to him by a friend. The time of the meeting was about 5 o'clock in the afternoon and Johnson, she says, suggested that the party adjourn to the hotel billiard room. There, she swears, at his request and persuasion, she tasted intoxicating liquors for the first time in her life. While the drinking was going on, she continued, he invited her to dine with him and suggested that they take in a show later. She replied that she would have to obtain her aunt's consent first, and he agreed to call for her at her home.

Consent being obtained, they drove down to the Herald Square Hotel, where they had dinner. During the meal, Miss Bowles says, at his earnest solicitation, she drank two or three cocktails, and afterward Johnson took her to see Maxine Elliott in "Her Own Way." In the midst of the performance she became very ill, and asked him to take her home. He refused, she says, and persuaded her to see the show through.

When they left the theater, however, she became worse, and Johnson took her to a nearby drug store, where he bought some medicine for her. But instead of improving, she got sicker still, and, then, she declares, he advised her to walk around to the Herald Square Hotel, where she sat in the ladies' parlor until she lost consciousness.

She knew nothing more, she says, until the next morning, when she woke up to find herself in a bedroom at the hotel.

"I upbraided him for what he had done," runs the affidavit, "and he begged my forgiveness, stating that he loved me dearly, that he was a single man and that he would make me his wife within a short time.

Relying upon this promise, she accompanied him to Philadelphia and Pittsburg, where he bought her a wedding ring, and then they put up at the Wolfendale Hotel, Allegheny, Pa., for five days as Mr. and Mrs. Ford. From time to time, she says, she asked him to fulfill his promise and marry her, but he put her off persistently with the plea that business matters rendered it impossible just then.

He told her at Allegheny that business compelled him to go to Wilkesbarre, and when she insisted that she would have to accompany him he refused, finally explaining that he was a married man with a family. She cried, she says, and he tried to console her with the assurance that he was going to get a divorce and would marry her as soon as he could obtain his freedom through the courts. Then she returned to New York and he went on to Wilkesbarre.

On returning home she confessed all to her aunt, and then telegraphed to Johnson, asking him to come on and see Mrs. Cheeks. Johnson did so, and repeated that he would shortly be free to marry her.

During the next two weeks, she says, she received a number of very affectionate letters from Johnson, several of which, not signed by his name, she attaches to her affidavit. Miss Bowles said that in March last she went on to Chicago, where she stayed until July. Johnson visited her there at the Stratford Hotel, and again renewed his promise to make her his wife as soon as possible. He left her for Wilkesbarre, and she has not seen him since. Last summer she had the case before the district attorney's office in New York, there being at that time a quarrel, apparently, over the custody of the girl. Johnson has not yet entered any answer to her allegations.

Miss Bowles is the same woman who gained notoriety in Chicago a few months ago by charging a woman named Gertrude Worcester Taylor, of St. Louis, with kidnapping her from New York.

FOR OVER SIXTY YEARS. AN OLD AND WELL-TRIED REMEDY—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over sixty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind, colic and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea, is sold and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind.

Disturbed Soil Breeds Disease.

Residents of east Washington and Capitol Hill say they believe excavations for the new Union station are causing diphtheria in that vicinity. They declare the last midsummer showed the heaviest record in a number of years. Dr. Thomas W. Smith, president of the East Washington Citizens' Association, states that the pollution of the earth is stirred up the air and spread disease. The records of the Health Department show that there have been several cases of disease on Canal street and on First street in the vicinity of the excavations for the First street tunnel in the southeast. Along the Virginia avenue tunnel there have been a number of cases of scarlet fever, but it is pointed out that one excavation would hardly produce diphtheria and another scarlet fever.

Farm Property.

The value of the farm property of the United States in 1900 was $20,439,901.164. This includes farm land with improvements, implements, machinery and livestock, and the enormous sum represents about eight times the amount of actual cash in the country. According to the report of the controller of the currency, there was in 1903 $2,638,100,000 of money of all kinds in the United States, so it will be seen that there is enough cash in the country to pay for only about one-eighth of the farms of the nation.

The State of Virginia had an increase in farm values of $76,039,441, the value of this kind of property in 1900 being $323,515,977, in 1890 $294,488,569, in 1880 $247,476,536.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it.
